
150 Years of Canada

It seems to us that 2017 is a great opportunity to reflect on what it means to be Canadian. And, of course, how we can make this country a better place for everyone who lives here.

With that in mind we have pulled together just a few of the books that we think might help get you started.

Do you want to explore new ways of doing philanthropy?

Toronto Foundation can connect you with organizations doing amazing work and others just like you, who care deeply about our communities and our country.

Talk to us.

Sharon Avery
416-921-2035 ext. 206
savery@torontofoundation.ca

2017: Our Learning Journey Begins!

150 Years of Canada

150 Years of Canada

Non-Fiction

- Go to School,
You're a Little Black Boy
The Honourable Lincoln M. Alexander
- The Hanging of Angélique
Afua Cooper
- Waiting for First Light
Roméo Dallaire
- Bastards & Boneheads
Will Ferguson
- The Reason You Walk
Wab Kinew
- The Inconvenient Indian
Thomas King
- Women Who Give Away Millions
Iris Nowell
- Dancing with a Ghost:
Exploring Aboriginal Reality
Rupert Ross
- Voice in the Wild
Laurie Sarkadi
- The Comeback: How
Aboriginals are Reclaiming
Power and Influence
John Ralston Saul

Fiction

- Love Enough
Dionne Brand
- How Does A Single Blade
of Grass Thank the Sun?
Doretta Lau
- The Diviners
Margaret Laurence
- Birdie
Tracey Lindberg
- Adult Onset
Ann-Marie MacDonald
- Bone and Bread
Saleema Nawaz
- Son of a Smaller Hero
Mordecai Richler
- Ru
Kim Thúy
- The Lesser Blessed
Richard Van Camp
- Ragged Company
Richard Wagamese

Historical Fiction

- The Secret Path
Gord Downie
- The Book of Negroes
Lawrence Hill
- Obasan
Joy Kogawa